

Structured Language Experience Story “ar” #2

Earlier today the spaceship landed on Mars. It was far from the projected mark. The planet was dark and barren. The surface was covered with a carpet of charcoal that was soft and sticky like tar. The pilot and his partner were smart to stay inside the ship. They could hear strange barking sounds outside. The men had an artillery of darts and arrows but luckily they didn't have to harm anyone!