

Structured Language Experience Story “aw” #1

It had been an awfully long, cold winter. Dawn had looked forward to taking her walks in the sprawling woods beyond her lawn. Some days were cold and raw, but the sun had thawed all of the snow. The grass which had looked like straw and was the color of sawdust, now looked beautiful with the green awnings of her house. She gathered her coat and her binoculars and hurried out the door. What would she see out in the woods today? As she walked to the deepest part of the woods, she saw some movement. As she watched with her binoculars, a deer and its fawn were sprawling by the pond to drink some of the thawed ice. Up above a hawk soared gracefully. Spring had come!
