

Structured Language Experience Story “ight” #2

My sister and I wanted to go sight seeing. We decided to go while it was still light. We headed in the direction north, not really knowing where we would go or what we might see. We weren't very far into our sightseeing adventure when my sister began to complain that her shoes felt too tight. We had to sit down right where we were and wait until they felt better. While we were waiting my sister and I got into a fight. She was acting frightfully!

We fought and fought until we realized it was nightfall. I went to get our flashlight but the light bulb was burned out. We both began to feel very frightened. Right in the center of our path appeared a bright light. It was the brightest light we had ever seen. Somehow we were given insight to follow right behind it and eventually it took us home.
