

Structured Language Experience Story “il(l)” #2

Will, the milkman, was sitting in his chilly villa watching a thrilling show. He heard the skilled TV host, Regis Philbin, ask, “Who Wants to be a Millionaire?”

Will pulled out his billfold, but wilted as he said, “Nil, there is no money in this billfold.” So, Will diligently wrote down the number for the show. He began dreaming of owning a racing filly, gold gilded silverware, thrilling cars built for speed, and pillows filled with money.

Suddenly, he felt silly for thinking of all of these billowy dreams. Will made a decision to use his willpower. He gave away his billy goat and his villa stacked with unpaid bills. Then he joined the military. There he would have to give up his willy-nilly lifestyle.
