

Structured Language Experience Story “is(s)” #1

The mistrustful historian was dissatisfied with Miss Gliss’s story of the historic disaster. He listened to her blissfully repeat the tale. But, he dismissed her view as a misinterpretation of the facts.

Disapprovingly, he told her that it wasn’t a kismet that had caused the disaster. Rather, it was the risky miscalculation of the enemy’s strength by the listless generals that caused the problem to grow instead of dissipate.

Miss Gliss disagreed and shook her fist. She began to hiss as she listened to all the facts that she felt were important. The historian and Miss Gliss couldn’t agree and discarded each other’s viewpoint.
