

Structured Language Experience Story “ite” #2

Dwite and his wife were excited about their new homesite. They were two of the biggest socialites in the town of Trotskyite. To celebrate their new home, they decided to have a black-and -white formal. Dwite and his wife invited all the other suburbanites and told them to bring their appetites. Dwite’s wife decided to lose her cellulite before the dinner so that she could wear her dynamite white dress. Dwite politely implied that they needed to build a campsite with a fire so the guests would not suffer from frostbite. His wife thought Dwite was quite right. She hired Whitey to construct a graphite surface so that they could build a fire on it for their guests. The black-and-white party included many impolite guests, but all the socialites enjoyed themselves nonetheless.

