

Structured Language Experience Story “ock” #2

Fran and Nick were standing on the dock by the lake when someone shot a rocket into the livestock paddock. The flock of gamecocks was shocked. The chickens flocked clockwise around their bedrock pen until they broke out. Fran and Nick decided they needed to contain the chickens. They discussed a plan. They wanted to put up a blockade to restrain them.

Looking through her pocketbook, Fran found a toothpick, sticker, lipstick, and a noisy clicker. She took the clicker and hid behind the hammock. When the chickens got near, she clicked the clicker so loud it sounded like an earthquake. The chickens turned around and hiked back into the stockade where Nick quickly padlocked the gate. Then they went back to the dock.