

Structured Language Experience Story “ook” #2

Brook was trying to use a cookbook so that she could make her friends dinner. Earlier in the day she took a look at her checkbook to see what she could buy. She shook her head in amazement! She had money in her pocketbook that she didn't know was there. Brook headed to Windhook, the corner store, where she bought a matchbook for lighting candles. Next, she noticed a notebook that was full of games to play. Then she remembered that she already had a copy of these games in her workbook at home. When her guests arrived they began the night by looking through old yearbooks. Brook even pulled out an old scrapbook that had pictures of all of them from earlier yearbooks.
