

Structured Language Experience Story “ou” #2

Everyone was outside when the cloudburst appeared over the mountain. Shouting loudly, there was an outcry to outrun the storm and head into the house. This outdoor housewarming party was about to move to the lounge. Many people shouted for joy, since the bountiful rain would end the drought.

Once inside, the new housewife was glad that the housekeeper had finished the housecleaning that morning. Even though the weather had made some guests grouchy, they smiled when they got a mouthful of the outstanding food. There was no doubt about it. This party had rebounded from near disaster.
