

Structured Language Experience Story “ound” #1

Once there was a hound that lived in a compound surrounded by barbed wire fencing. Day after day he would walk around the yard trying to find his way out. He even wound his chain around the mound in the middle of the yard looking for a way around the surrounding fence. Night after night he would pound against the ground looking for a way out. One night however, while pounding around the surrounding area he found a small hole in the compound fence. In one gigantic leap and bound he was out and hasn't been heard from since!