

Structured Language Experience Story “ue” #1

On Tuesday, the Bluebell Garden Club was hosting a barbecue on Kenue Avenue. At first, they were just going to collect the dues and have some fondue. But, after working a grueling day, most members were hungry and wanted barbecue while they pursued the current club issues.

The first issue they discussed was how much revenue they had accrued at the last garden show. Then they continued to argue about whether they should plant blueberries this season. Finally, they subdued their talk and got to work creating a garden blueprint of all of the plants of any value to the club garden.

These true-blue members were friends in the truest sense. They left Kenue Avenue feeling that they had pursued and found beauty during their barbecue meeting.
