

Structured Language Experience Story “ure” #1

Once there was a sure-footed, purebred racehorse, named Pure Beauty that was famous for always winning the race. It was rumored that this horse lived on only pureed fruit. This fruit made it possible for him to endure a very long race. One day an evil Federal Bureau of Investigation agent tried to lure the horse with sugar. Pure Beauty was allured for only a minute before he realized that it was a trick. His jockey appeared and secured the area and procured him some more pureed fruit. His jockey sure cured his problem and he won the next race.
